In Your Neighborhood:
Pittsburgh's Frick Park Gatehouse
*with Eric Osth

Eric Osth, principal at Urban Design Associates, and an ICAA Board Member, invites viewers to visit the Frick Park Gatehouse in his neighborhood of Point Breeze, Pittsburgh. Frick Park features four major gatehouses, all designed by John Russell Pope. Join Eric as he describes how these architectural elements elevate a shared public space.

WHAT WE'RE WATCHING

Introducing A New Weekly Roundup of Films for Architecture and Design Lovers
*with this week's guest, Richard Economakis

Introducing a new series highlighting the film recommendations of noted luminaries in the ICAA community. These recommendations are given with a special eye towards the enthusiast of classical and traditional architecture and design.

For our first week, we are pleased to welcome Richard Economakis, Director of Architecture and Urbanism at the University of Notre Dame, whose recommendations take us to country houses, beautiful gardens, and Palladian villas.

FROM THE ARCHIVES

Adventures with the English Country House with Ben Pentreath

In the summer of 2019, the ICAA was honored to host a series of lectures as the educational partner with Sotheby's, for the Treasures from Chatsworth series at their New York galleries. For this series, the ICAA brought renowned lecturers to packed audiences throughout the season who illuminated the history, architecture, landscape, and artistry of Chatsworth, one of England's great country estates.

Join Ben Pentreath, architect, urbanist, and designer, for his entry in the Treasures from Chatsworth series, "Adventures with the English Country House," in which he details his own visit to Chatsworth along with highlights from his recent restoration of a historic baroque country house.

THE ICAA RECOMMENDS

Additional Resources for Learning Online

There is an abundance of educational materials online for the classical enthusiast. The ICAA offers AIA-approved courses in the Foundations of Classical Architecture, among other courses, along with hours of recorded lectures, panel discussions, and other explorations of the worlds of classicism, design, and fine arts.

Outside of the ICAA, other organizations and firms that value the classical tradition and its potential for elevating our lived environment also offer enriching educational material, which we do not hesitate to recommend. Here are a few:

From The Prince's Foundation comes a two-part online course, Sustainable Urban Design, which uses Poundbury as a case study, and is now available for free through the University College of Estate Management. Learn more.

From architect Francis Terry, a series of online videos is available, which explores the history of architecture, including introductions to the architecture of the Italian

Renaissance, the Baroque, the 18th Century, (including Rococo and Neoclassicism), the Victorian and Edwardian eras, through the period between the two World Wars. View the full series.
