Peter's Reflections

Seven Ways Our Chapters are Advancing the ICAA's Mission Nationwide

The New York Public Library is prominently featured in Margot Ellis's book, Americans in Paris, and highlighted in Francis Morrone's New York Chapter lecture series, The Architecture of New York from the 18th Century to Today.

Peter Lyden congratulates ICAA chapters nationwide on their role in launching several ground-breaking initiatives – including the Americans in Paris lecture & book signing series with Margot Ellis, continuing education courses at the Museum of Fine Arts in Boston, and tuition support for architecture students.

Summer Studio in Classical Architecture

Scholarships Available

The application deadline for the Summer Studio in Classical Architecture is approaching! Esteemed professors and leading industry practitioners, such as Richard Economakis, Michael Watkins and Calder Loth, will lead students through a four-week, immersive curriculum that introduces the skills, knowledge, and resources essential to the practice of classical design. Both in the classroom and outside – with field studies at sites such as Edgewater and office visits to firms such as Peter Pennoyer Architects – Summer Studio provides students with a hands-on approach to the classical tradition.

Thanks to the Richard H. Driehaus Charitable Lead Trust, the ICAA is able to offer scholarships to ensure accessibility for students of all financial backgrounds.
